Description

The author of this little book is a wife, a mother of a family, a homemaker, and in her spare time, a handcrafts artisan. She is writing for her sisters in Christ. She is not wanting to moralize. Rather, her aim is to help those who see no point in being confined at home like a bird in a cage to discover, or to rediscover, the value of domestic tasks in a biblical perspective.

Being hospitable, a service open to single as well, is a matter of following in the tracks of our Divine Model who welcomed all who came to Him and gave them rest.

If for even one such believer these lines would contribute to transforming a dissatisfied woman into a happy hostess, happily serving her master, the Lord will have blessed these lines. To Him be all the glory!
