Description

What real believer doesn't want to fully follow the Lord? Sadly, so many other things come into our lives and make us half-hearted believers. Living Wholly for God (formerly Woollen and Linen) gives encouragement to live a life without mixed principles. Bellett's warm and Christ-centered focus doesn't fail to aim at the conscience.

There are many examples in Scripture of real believers who lived so much of their lives with a significant mixture of principles. Mr. Bellett gently points out the lessons we can learn from the lives of men such as Lot, Jonathan, Jehoshaphat and others. God's recorded warnings help us to recognize similar traits in our own lives and turn to the Lord for deliverance.

Many of us have been influenced by good family habits but also by bad ones. We need fresh energy and help from the Lord to not fall into the same errors of those that have gone before us. Lessons from the Cretians, Laban, Rebecca and others help us to recognize how error can be passed from one generation to the next.
