Description

Is it right for Christians to attend theaters and other places of amusement? This is a question often asked; and, as it is one of great importance, affecting the testimony here on earth, and also the reward in eternal glory, it is well that it should be answered in such a way that there may be no possibility of mistake.

For God's people, God's word, which is given to be a lamp to the feet and a light to the path, should be the guide in all such questions. And no surer guide are the chart and the compass to the mariner in his path across the trackless deep, than is the Bible to the Christian in his pathway through the mazes of this world. Its principles are sufficient to govern and guide him in whatever circumstances he may be placed.

But all Christians are not willing to be governed by God's word; and such as are not must, sooner or later, go

"Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him."
